

Are you at risk for colorectal cancer?

Free prevention and screening program includes:

- Presentation by a registered dietitian nutritionist who will share practical information and evidence that supports how eating healthy foods can lower the chances of getting colorectal cancer
- A free cancer screening kit for those who qualify (ages 45 and older, with a primary care physician)
- Assistance with finding a primary care physician offered.

Colorectal cancer affects both men and women. It is the second-leading cancer killer in the U.S. and occurs most often in people 45 and older. Learning the latest prevention strategies and taking screening tests could save your life. Join Ascension Genesys for a free colorectal cancer prevention and screening program.

Participants will learn how to reduce their cancer risks and receive a colorectal cancer screening kit.

Date and time Wednesday, March 27, 2024 from 12:00-1:00 P.M.

Location

Ascension Genesys Hospital Auditorium (Enter main doors and take stairs or elevator on left to basement floor, take a left and follow the hallway to "Auditorium" sign)

Space is limited . To RSVP, please call by March 15th 810-606-6312 or email Joshua.bedell@ascension.org